Agitation in Germany. BERLIN, Jan. 23 .- In the Reichstag to-day Dr. Barth, Radical Unionist, asked Chancellor Hohenlohe if the government could not make a statement regarding the plan for summoning an international monetary conference, which the federal governments have been considering. The President replied that he was not in a position to give any information to-day, but he hoped to be able to state shortly the attitude of the federal governments relative to the resolution adopted by the Reichstag in February last. Count Von Kardof said the imperial party would await the statements, but would increase its endeavors to bring the currency question still more to the foreground in the future, especially since the government had so uncompromisingly rejected Count olution referred to was the mo-

Republican Silver Senators. silver Senators to-day signed a declaration which is intended to be used in the coming campaign as the demand which the silver men will make for a plank in the national convention. In the preamble it is recited that the present financial system endangers the industrial prosperity of the United States, which is threatened by China and Japan as a result of the decrease in the value of silver and the difference of exchange between silver and gold-using countries. It is therefore resolved that the signers favor the free and unlimited coinage of sliver at a ratio of 16 to 1 for the purpose of obliterating this difference of exchange, which is declared to operate as a bounty on the export of products from silver-using countries to gold-using countries. It is also resolved that they favor a tariff which shall equalize the difference in the cost of labor between this country and the countries of Europe, and Asia. It is the purpose of those who are circulating the declaration to get all the Republican silver men in Congress to sign it.

Responding to his subject the ex-Senator criticized the policy of the administration regarding Hawaii, Samoa and Nicaragua and predicted that the next administration would hoist and maintain the American dag in Hawaii. The country indorsed the President's Venezuelan message, yet it might have been so framed as to avoid the threat of war. He advocated protection of the Armenians by the United States. Every mention of Alger's name by the various speakers, in connection with presidential possibilities, was loudly applauded.

MINNIE SINCERE'S CLAIM.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.-The Republican | Says She Was the Wife of C. B. At-

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 .- A local paper says:

Detective Mason, of Chicago, arrived in White Plains to-day to investigate the history of Minnie Sincere, the alleged widow of Charles B. Atwood, who died in Chicago two months ago. Atwood at the time of his death left an estate valued at $600,000, and when the will came up for probate in Chicago, Minnie Sincere made a contest. Atwood's heirs did not know he was a married man and when Minnie Sincere's claim for a widow's dowry was made they were greatly surprised. In her affidavit setting forth that she was the widow of the dead man, Minnie Sincere stated that she was married to him in this city by the Rev. Dr. Houghton, in "The Church Around the Corner." She stated that they lived for a while in New York city and had a child. In 1882 they moved to White Plains. Atwood hired a cottage and occupied it for two years with a woman and a two-year-old child. The woman was known as his wife. In 1884 Atwood, the woman and the child disappeared from White Plains, It was not known where they went to, but Atwood was sebsequetnly heard of in Chicago. He was very rich. Nothing was heard from the woman or the child. Minnie Sincere claims to be the woman who was living with Atwood. She says her child died in New York and was buried in White Plains. She says she has been all over the country since she parted with her husband. The woman stated that she went on the stage to make a living and heard nothing of her husband until she read about his death in Chicago. Then she decided that she would put in a claim for her dower. Detective Mason says he has learned since coming east that Minnie Sincere sued Atwood for divorce in New York four years ago, but her application was denied. The detective did not state on what ground the suit was brought. The woman had no certificate that she was the wife of Atwood. There was no record on file in the "Little Church Around the Corner" of the marriage, according to detective Mason. Atwood was a well-known club man in New York before he went West. He was never known by his friends to have been married. So far as detective Mason looked he could find nothing here to prove that Minnie Sincere had been married to Atwood. General Alger's Son Married.

After consultation Mr. Enos ordered Phil lips and Whitcomb sent to jail and Marshal Sparks and Deputy Neal took them in. Mr. Wilson, attorney for the saloon men, claims that the Mayor has no legal right to assess a larger fine than $25 under the statute and advised his clients to go to jail and have a case of false imprisonment against the Mayor. Papers were begun for a writ of habeas corpus, but before they could be completed Mayor Enos discovered that he had no authority to assess a fine of more than $25 and started Marshal Sparks and Deputy Neal with an order for the release of Phillips and Whitcomb from custody. This was the first legal victory that the saloon men have gained in this trouble and their adherents are jubilant. This Year Promises to Be the Biggest in the Indiana Field.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MONTPELIER, Ind., Jan. 23 .- The Indiana oil field is certainly on a genuine oil boom. This will be the great year of the field; at least, such is the outlook at the present time. During the past year the borders of the old producing districts were extended and several promising new districts were discovered, which will be the most active spots for the time being, or until some more prolific spot is found by the "wild-catter," who is responsible for the opening of new pools. Maj. Charles Doxey is very enthusiastic over the oil business and wants to get control of the production of the State. There are thousands of acres of good territory in the State that the drill has not found and plenty to keep he drill a-going for years to come. > DAVID SUTTON TO RESIGN. Leaves the Friends Because of the Treatment of Dr. Dougan Clark.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RICHMOND, Ind., Jan. 23.-Quite a surprise was sprung here to-day by the announcement that David Sutton, of this city, one of the most prominent members of Indiana Yearly Meeting of Friends, and who recently subscribed $1,000 to the endowment fund of Earlham College, on Saturday will tender his resignation to the monthly meeting as a member of the East Main-street Church. His action is due to the way in which the Rev. Dr. Dougan Clark was treated by the congregation. For some months past Mr. Clark has not appeared n the capacity of a minister except for other denominations. The feeling over the matter was very strong and it was pre-dicted that it would cause a split in the denomination here. Mr. Sutton is the first to announce his intention of resigning his membership. The ground he bases his action on is that Dr. Clark's removal was secured by unfair means and that he does not think it right to support and uphold a church that countenances such proceedings. He says that he will always be a

A sort time ago it was discovered that Treasurer Heal was short in his accounts to the amount of about $15,000. This was immediately turned into the treasury by his bondsmen, who requested that he be kept in office. The commissioners had no official knowledge of the shortage and the matter was kept under advisement until to-day, when Heal settled the question by offering his resignation. The commissioners have appointed John P. Campbell, I. M. Cox and John Ratliff to investigate the condition of the accounts in the treasurer's office. Campbell is a Republican, and Cox a Democrat and both are ex-treasurers, while Ratliff is a Prohibitionist and ex-auditor of the county. Heal has turned all of his property over to

THE WAR ON SALOONS John V. Farwell & Co. and Albert Holstein. Farwell & Co. effected a deal by which they were to take charge of the stock. This arrangement was not satisfactory to Albert Holstein, who had recently sold large bills of cloaks to the stranded firm. He arrived in the city, and with a deputy sheriff, a writ of replevin and an ax, forced the back door and seized his goods. Afterward the entire stock was sold at private sale, and now the courts are called on to decide the claims of the contesting parties. Holstein is suing Farwell & Co. and alleges that the goods were transferred to Farwell & Co. with fraudulent intent; that they were purchased at a time the firm knew it was about to fail. Suits are also pending against Rice, Styles & Co. instituted by Bernard Israel, George Downs & Co., the McShiff Company and Henry Rosenbaum. Rice Styles & Co. had a stock valued at about $13,000, but the claims of the various contestants aggregate a much greater sum.

Two hours later, when caught, his face was perfectly smooth. Mr. Timm concluded he did not have the right man, but after making him take off his rubber coat and remove the pieces of an old shawl wraped about his pants, he found that he had a man dressed in full suit of stripes. His mustache had been removed with a case-knife sharpened for the oc-casion. There seems to be but little use of convicts attempting to escape from Warden Harley and his corps of efficient

CARLOS CASTILLO KILLED IN AN ENGAGEMENT WITH SPANIARDS.

General Gomes Reported to Be Trying to Avoid the Enemy-Results of Minor Engagements.

HAVANA, Jan. 23.-The latest move-were that yesterday he was at the plantation of Moratas and passed through near Chimbararazo, province of Havana, going southward. He does not appear to have camped last night, but divided his forces and sent them on the march in several directions. The Spanish troops are closely pursuing the insurgents, and it is said that they will be unable to escape east, north or west. In fact, Gomez's position is looked on here as being rather critical. The famous insurgent leader, Carlos Castillo, according to advices received here from the province of Santa Clara, has been killed in an engagement with Spanish troops. The only details obtainable are that an insurgent force under Castillo and a Mexican leader, who has not been identified, had a fight with a detachment of the American battalion, commanded by Major Talavera, and that six insurgents were killed in addition to Castillo and the Mexican referred to. It is now said that Gen. Pando will return to the province of Santiago de Cuba instead of taking command of the Spanish forces in the province of Pinar del Rio, as he hoped to do. Gen. Pando was accorded a reception at the palace to-day, it being the saint day of the King. SHANKS MURDER CASE

STORY OF THE DEATH OF A GIRL AFTER A SHAMEFUL ACCUSATION.

Trial of the Alleged Murderers to Begin at Terre Haute Next Monday-State Claims a Strong Case.

Daniel W. Sims, one of the leading lawyers of the western part of the State, is here from Covington looking up some litigation in which the Big Four Railroad Company is involved. Attorney Sims has bee I retained by the State as special prosecutor in the Clara Shanks murder case, which comes up for trial at Terre Haute next Monday. The attorney says the State is well prepared with its accumulation of evidence. "

The murder of Clara Shanks, which occurred last July, in Parke county, near the Fountaine county line, is replete with sensationalism. Her alleged slavers-Daniel Keller, his wife and his sister, Maggie Keller-are confined in the Terre Haute jail, where they were taken when the case was venued to Vigo county. The tragedy at the time attracted a great deal of attention over the State. Clara Shanks was the daughter of an humble and unpretentitious farmer, who owned a few scant acres in one of the hilly districts of Fountaine county. Just across the road from the Shanks family lived Daniel Keller, with his wife and sister. All of the parties to the tragedy belonged to the uneducated class, but they were strong in their likes and dis-

Until the violent death of Clara Shanks the families were on friendly terms. The girl, as it appears, was the cause of the trouble between the neighbors. She was pretty and young, and according to the claim of the prosecution, Mrs. Keller grew jealous of her. July 4, 1895, Clara Shanks told her mother that Mrs. Keller shown a disposition to treat her coolly. Mrs. Shanks went to The latter informed the mother that it bor had a violent quarrel. Mrs. Keller declared that she had proof of the intimacy, and the State avers that on this occasion Dan Keller openly avowed that his wife's charges were true. Clara Shanks indignantly denied the accusation again. At noon on the day of the quarrel between the two women the matter was discussed by the Shanks family at the dinner table, and the girl left the house abruptly. She was never seen alive again. The following day her body was found in pool of water a few hundred yards from the house. In the evening of the day on which the body was found a brother of the Shanks girl loaded his shotgun and went over to the Keller home. It is not thought that he suspected Keller, but the supposition of the State is that at that time he believed his sister had committed suicide because of the shameful charge made by the Kellers. Young Shanks called Keller from the house and fired at him, but missed his mark. Later, when the body of the girl was examined, it was found that her neck had been broken, her skull crushed in and there were dust and bruises on her face and marks on her throat. It is the theory of the State that Keller murdered the girl and was perhaps assisted by his wife and sister. Attorney Sims has reasoned it out with the wisdom of a Sherlock Holmes. He thinks that when the girl left the house that day Keller got her into his own house and killed her. The attorney figures that he kept the body in the house until nightfall, and then carried it to the pool of water where it was found. "The body was not taken there until night," reasoned the attorney, "because a lot of boys spent the afternoon swimming in that very water. Then I have another point that I have figured out. I searched the Keller house a 1ew days after the body was found and picked up a pair of trousers. Just below the knees I found dark stains that I believed to be blood. My notion is that Keller swung the body of the girl over his shoulder, with her head hanging down. As he walked the blood dripped from her wounds on to his trousers. The attorney says it is expected that the defense will try to make two important points. They will contend that Clara an inch in the back of his neck.

Shanks either killed herself or was mur- "This fellow performed this feat nightly dered by her father and brother, and thrown into the water. The aim of the defense, he says, will be to show that the family was terribly incensed because of the shame brought upon them, whether the girl was guilty or not. The State holds that testimony will be introduced to show that the girl was pure.

HYPNOTIC FAKIRS. Subjects Exhibited on the Stage Are Usually Frauds.

Buffalo Express, "I will tell you all I know about fraudulent hypnotic subjects," said a man who spends much of his time investigating fads, "and I can promise to astonish

"In the first place," he said, "there is never a truth but someone treads on it. and the fact that there is fraud proves that the genuine exists. Fraudulent hypnotism is seen more in England and America than in any other parts of the world. The fact that France and Belgium have passed laws prohibiting its practice, except under medical safeguards, prevents fraud in those countries, but America is a free land; Mrs. Keller to locate the trouble. a man is free to rob everyone he can, if he keeps within the letter of the law. How is fraudulent hypnotism managed? was about Dan and Clara." The girl denied Just as any stage business is. The prothe accusation made by Mrs. Keller, and a fessional subject has his line of business few days later Mrs. Shanks and her neight dance man. When printed bills announce a hypnotic performance, the subjects apply for work at the stage door of the theater, and are engaged in the ordinary way by the hypnotizer or his assistant. Taking into consideration the work they have to do. their business is not particularly desirable. They must have cost iron stomachs, and be able to swallow such delicacies as soapsuds castor oil, cayenne pepper, coal oil and ammonia. As for their pay," continued the old gentleman, "it varies according to their ability. In England the average salary is about $6.50 a week, while in New York good catleptic fakirs can make $25 to $30 a week. If a man is extraordinarily ciever and can stand redhot cigars pressed against his cheeks and remain perfectly quiet while papper is put in his eyes, he can command $35 a week. There are lots of men who can do this in New York. You can see them at nearly every hypnotic performance that is given, and as for men who can stand having their noses sewed up and their ears sewed to their cheeks, they are as common as water.' 'It must be a dangerous calling, then?" "It is. Nine subjects out of every ten eventually find their way to an insane asylum. How they stand the frightful pain attached to some of the tests I do not know, but they do, and many of the experts make engagements to travel with fraudulent hypnotists and suffer these tortures nightly. Once the speaker asked one of these sub-jects if he took any anesthetic before going on the stage. The subject said he took nothing. He simply strung his nerves to a tension, fixed his eyes into a kind of glassy stare, and, as he described it, "let her go." "This man." said the old gentleman, "was a wonder. He could make himself as rigid as a board. In London I saw him stretched out, with his neck and feet resting on the backs of two chairs, forming a sort of living bridge. The fake hypnotist made several passes over him, and announced that any one who wished to stand on his subject could do so. Three men, each weighing about 180 pounds, mounted the stage and sat on the unfortunate fellow for over four minutes. He did not move a muscle, though the rim of the chair back was forced fully for a week. He then was sent to the hos-The old gentleman said he afterward learned that the man got £2 (about $10) a week. It is a noticeable fact that women rarely appear as hypnotic subjects in the various exhibitions heid, and if by chance one of the fair sex is prevailed upon to make her debut as a hypnotic fakir she is never tested in a painful manner. The reason is clear. Women could not stand if without wincing. All women ever do is to eat raw potatoes or blacken their faces with soot when told to "wash themselves." These cataleptic fakirs are almost greater curiosities than the real hypnotic subjects, The opinions of several prominent doctors who were asked how the men stood such pain were rather unsatisfactory. One said that they must benumb themselves with drugs, while another said that there are ome persons who can stand almost anything. This opinion was confirmed by an uptown dentist, who said there were men seemingly without nerves. "In no business is this better exemplified than in ours," he said. "Some persons can
